

Workshop Terms and conditions

Gatehouse candles reserves the right to cancel or re arrange the venue for its workshops if necessary. If we do cancel a workshop you will be entitled to a full refund or you can book any other date to attend. Please note we will give a full refund for the cost of the course but cannot be held responsible for any additional expense that an individual incurs as a result of the cancellation of one of the workshops.

Workshops timings and dates may be subject to change without prior notice.

No refunds for cancellations will be given but if a person needs to reschedule we are happy to accommodate this up to a maximum of 3 times after this point no refund will be given. We are more than happy for someone else to come in your place if you are unable to attend but you must advise us of the person who is coming with all their contact details at least 24 hours before the workshop is due to commence.

Gatehouse candles does not accept any responsibility for any accidents or misuse of training carried out by any of the attendees to our workshops either whilst at our premises or once they are away and carrying out their own activities either at home in the work place or a public arena or area. All attendees accept that they carry out the training at their own risk and as we are constantly developing our classes we reserve the right to make changes without prior notice.

By booking a Gatehouse Candles Workshop , the customer agrees to take full personal responsibility for any accident/injury that may be sustained whilst attending the workshop, waiving any liability whatsoever from Gatehouse Candles and/or its directors and indemnifying Gatehouse Candles and/or any of its staff fully against any and all losses that may result from any legal action that may follow any accident or injury sustained whilst attending a Gatehouse Candles Workshop. Acceptance of the training by the attendee indicates acceptance of the above terms and conditions.
